

Davenport, Foote Recognized as Top Environmental and Energy Law Attorneys by Missouri Lawyers Media

Press Release

11.15.2024

Stinson LLP Partners Aimee Guzman Davenport and Kyle Foote are recognized on the Missouri Lawyers Media POWER List featuring the top environmental and energy law attorneys in the state.

Davenport and Foote are two of 30 attorneys recognized by the publication. Both were selected for their ability to offer solutions to complex matters, assess risk and maximize resources for sustainable growth. Clients value their effective advice and guidance through the complexities of environmental law, including PFAS regulations and various other evolving natural resources policies.

Davenport is best known for her over 23 years of experience working with clients to resolve drinking water, clean water, water rights, and National Environmental Policy Act matters in cases involving state and federal governmental agencies and non-governmental organizations. Her clients include municipal utilities, chemical manufacturers, groundwater management districts and energy transmission companies, among others. Davenport frequently combines regulatory and litigation strategies to achieve long-term results.

Foote blends state and federal environmental experience and knowledge of regulatory compliance strategies, government programs and enforcement efforts to advise on contaminated properties, facility operations, and business and real estate ventures in the complex arena of environmental law. He represents companies subject to federal and state environmental regulations and enforcement actions, and counsels clients on environmental compliance and risk mitigation for industrial facilities, including data centers, manufacturing facilities, wind and solar renewable energy and battery storage projects.
